II Structures and Operations: District Level

The district Title I parent advisory meets for the purpose of providing direction, support, and education for the general operation of the Title I Parent Involvement component and may be involved in district Title I program planning on an advisory level.

III Structures and Operation: School Level

- A. Each Title I school should hold their Title I Parent Involvement Annual meeting early in August or September to review the school's Title I program design for the current school year, and discuss meetings/activities for the remainder of the school year. At least one of the meetings will involve consulting with parents on the design and implementation of the program planning committee, the group responsible for planning the Title I program.
- B. Schools may provide information on a wide variety of topics, including: reinforcing academic skills at home, setting up a stimulating learning environment at home, monitoring television/computer use, fostering positive self-esteem in their children, assisting in homework completion, monitoring attendance, understanding key issues in child development, and providing even more encouragement for their child to do their very best in school.
- C. Parents of Title I students, Title I teachers and educational assistants, and other school personnel may participate in the parent activities. Interested parties may attend Title I activities as long as no additional expenditures of money will result from their participation and that the intent of the activity is to address needs, interest, and concerns of Title I parents.
- D. A Plan/Calendar of the school-level parent activities should include a flexible series of meetings during the school year. Meetings and/or events will be conducted monthly. ECRA will notify families a minimum of five days in advance of events and/or meetings.
